but the flames were extinguished. There was no insurance on the furniture, all of which was burned, and the house was only partially insured.

Thursday evening George T. Cobb, of Windham, aged about 30 years, fell dead on Moulton street, Portland. He had gone into Gill's restaurant and ordered supper, and while it was being cooked went out for a moment. He fell on the sidewalk and died almost instantly. The body was carried to Eich's undertaking rooms, and Dr. King summoned, who pronounced it a case of death by apoplexy.

George Davis, who sold the property along the wharves at Rockport, last July, was tendered in Auburn county recently, and arraigned at Rockport, where on examination bail was put under $[illegible] bonds for his appearance at Gaoler court. He could not furnish bonds and was taken to Ellsworth jail, says the Journal.

DR. WEED ON THE STAND.

The Poor man accused with Incest Testimony and Cross-Examination.

The Doctor continues his story and is closely questioned by County Attorney Appleton.

Court came in promptly at nine o'clock. The court room was filled, many ladies being present. The examination of Dr. Weed continued. Arose about 6.30 Sunday morning and went to pack office, my breakfast not being ready. Did not attend church on account of bo-mass which prevented. Went down to the office and was building a fire when a man came in and asked me to call and see his wife. Went to his house, then proceeded about one-half a mile to a house where I purchased stimulants to the amount of one pint. Then drove along the road to the house of a patient, Mr Brooks, where I carried a lady to a neighbor's house where I took more liquor.

When I got back to Mr Brooks', took more liquor. Left his house about 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and on the road drank all the liquor remaining in the bottle. Called at the house where I purchased the liquor and took two drinks of rum or whiskey. Returned to my office, was building a fire when Clarence W. Whitney came in, which was the first time I had seen him for some time. Had more conversation with him, when he left and I did not see him again. Next time I saw him was in jail. Lighted a lamp in back office. Went to my house about five o'clock; my wife was vexed and we had some words. Laid down a few minutes on a sofa.

Left the house after supper and went to my office and laid down on lounge in back office. Was aroused by some one coming in, a Newport man. The heat becoming oppressive I went into the front office. After attending to a patient returned to back office, when a Mr Gilman came in and wanted me to attend to his wife right off. This was about nine or a little past. Left the office and went to Mr. Gilman's house where I attended to the patient. Left their house about 11 o'clock p. m. called at my office on my return home, left my trunk in the hall. Arriving home found my wife and daughter up and awaiting me. Went to bed slept some time when I was awakened by some noise. Wife told me a messenger had arrived desiring my presence at Bennett's house, that Bennett had been robbed and injured. Drove to office where I got some instruments, then went to Bennett's. Found several neighbors in house, found Mr. Bennett in rocking chair and Dr. Harvey attending to his wounds. Examined Bennett's wounds very carefully. Examined the room and contents. Found the wound to be a clear cut, wound on head and at same time an irregular cut. Dr. Harvey took stitches in head. Recommended that they send to Bangor for detective or officer. Left Bennett's and arrived home I think before daylight.

It was a dark night. Have an organic heart trouble. May have been considered by excess. Visited Bennett's again Monday morning, found Sheriff Brown, Officer Allen and some others. Saw Bennett and gave him medicine. Had given Bennett medicine several days before, for a trouble from which he was suffering. Never gave Bennett at any time any opiates or anything calculated to produce sleep. Have a pistol, owned it eight years. It is not a Smith & Wesson. Had two caps, one of which I gave to Mr Sanborn. Had only one pistol at the time. Kept it at house. Carried it when called out nights, and was not in the habit of carrying it except at such times.

Foster was never in my office to my knowledge. Had no conversations with Whitney in jail of the nature which he testified to.

Cross-examination by Mr. Appleton. Was brought to jail Feb. 28. Committed debtor's call till my examination before Police Court. Afterwards put in lower tier, staying there 20 days. Graduated at the American University of Philadelphia in 1870, and received my diploma. First came to Newport 16 or 18 years ago last June and began practice. Opened drug store about 8 years ago and kept store about 3 years. Was in Newport from May 1st, 1881 to December 4th, 1887.

Warrant absent during that time for any period of long duration. May have been away from home several nights during that period but have no recollection of it. Was Bennett's family physician for about a year before the robbery. Called professionally, seven times for Mrs. Bennett my aunt and Peter Bennett's wife. Noticed table at foot of Bennett's bed, but never noticed trunk either in particularly. Noticed that table with drawers but do not remember anything under it. Did not remember have going there. Noticed it. Have heard that Bennett had large sums of money in his house.

Never heard that he had a trunk in his room. [illegible] (Pointed out left jaw, where pistol produced bruise in Bennett's mouth and left teeth. (Pointed out left jaw, where pistol produced bruise). Have known Jackson, Gilman and Whitney for years. Jackson, Gilman and Whitney were in the habit of coming to my house. Whitney spoke of Bennett's money. Attached no particular importance to it. Have no recollection when my attention was called to the conversation.

A recess of fifteen minutes was here taken.

Continued. Was at home on June 30, 1887. My office is about fifty rods from telegraph office and about seventy-five rods to my house. Ascend a winding staircase to my office. (Witness here described office furnishings, contents, etc). Went to my office Saturday morning before the robbery. Took stimulants in the morning. Went home to dinner. Took stimulants before dinner. Went to office after dinner. Went home about five o'clock and took stimulants. Ate supper, took stimulants and went to office, calling at post office and drug store. Several were in the office during the evening, one man being there when I came in. Remember Mr. Frye was in the office that evening, because we saw a fire and discussed the location. Do not know where it was, did not inquire afterwards about it. Frye left the office, I should say, about 8 30 o'clock. Left office about nine o'clock and went home. Retired about ten o'clock; slept in usual room at home. Whitney called at my office about 2 30 Sunday afternoon. He inquired for Judson Coles. Did not inform any officer, after Whitney's arrest, that he was in my office Sunday afternoon.

Remember my doings on Monday to-quote a report was circulated that I, with Whitney and others was gambling, playing poker, and that being detrimental to my reputation, I investigated and contested my doings that day. Same report did not cause me to modify my doings on Saturday. Received a despatch December 3d, signed Cole & Co. Opened despatch in front office and read it as I was passing to back room. Know of no other Dr. George Weed in Newport. Witness shown Hopkins cap and tried it on, said it was good fit. Show Hues coat after trying it on, said it resembled a coat hanging in his back office at time of my arrest. Noticed stain on shoulder of coat which looks somewhat like blood. The coat hung on a nail and used it for the purpose of wiping instruments on it, had hung there for a year. Think the stain might have been made by wiping a bloody instrument. Have used it for that purpose more or less up to the time of my arrest. Have used it on post mortems when otherwise for extracting teeth and other purposes. Have not used it for that purpose for a year.

At this point court adjourned to 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Milo Letter.

(Regular Correspondence of Whig and Courier.)

Milo is again being visited with sickness and death. A number of cases of fever are reported, and one or more deaths.

The long rain and dull weather is injuring the crops very much, and some are not yet done haying, while others have large fields of grain cut down and spoiling; but while the farmers watch for a clear spot in the skies the boys are happy with their fishing rods, and many are the large strings of fish seen on our streets daily. Business is lively but builders find it wet and heavy work. There has not been sunshine enough to dry the lumber after it is hauled from the mill.

Mr. Jerry Poole has his house far enough along to work under cover. Mr. Duggan has hinsap and boarded.

Mr. Charles Pierce, who is going to build two new houses, has been waiting for a week past for it to clear up so that he can begin work.

Both mills are running, and one runs night and day. The excelsior mill is nearly completed and will start in a few days.

Doble Brothers are busy in their new machine shop, and on the whole, business is on the boom.

Our sidewalks have been repaired and new planked the past week, so one can now walk in safety; but the ends should be let down so one would not snap his head off by stepping down four inches in a dark night.

The chairs for the new church have come and are being put in place, and it will soon be completed.

Dr. S. D. Sprague is now at home, having closed his hospital at Brownville.

We have another new dress maker's shop in town, which makes about one dozen now at work in that line, but they are all driven with work, and there is room.

Mr. Fred Owen is in town for a few days, he will return to his labor on Monday next.

Rockland Letter.

(Regular Correspondence of Whig and Courier.)

As the canvass progresses the Knox County Republicans are becoming enthusiastic over the prospects of success of the Republican ticket. The county convention in this county placed in nomination a strong ticket, which certainly has an even chance of being elected. In Presidential years the Republicans have usually carried this county or at least elected the greater part of the county ticket. The nominees for Senators are both men of character and respectability and stand deservedly high in the community in which they live. G. F. Burgess, of Rockport, is an extensive lime manufacturer, a son of the Rev. Peter Burgess late of Hermon, has a good academic education, dated for Colby University and at one time principal of the High school of this city.

E. P. Walker, of Vinalhaven, is engaged in the granite business, is a member of the Red Will Granite Company, and was one of the original partners of Bodwell & Webster in the extensive granite business of Vinalhaven which he largely assisted in building up. He is a man of intelligence and business capacity and is held in high esteem by his many friends all over the state.

I think has been any [illegible] of political [illegible] in this part of state for years, [illegible] Republicans have great enthusiasm [illegible]. They have been holding [illegible] meetings [illegible] and [illegible]

Rev. D. P. Hatch pastor of the Congregational church has just purchased a very desirable double lot on the corner of Lincoln and Beech streets and will commence, as soon as plans can be obtained, the construction of a nice residence for himself.

The foundation of the new house of Mr. Frank Lamb on Limerock street, is about ready to put on the sills.

The five Queen Anne cottages on Broadway, built by Mr. W. G. Singhi, are all completed or nearly so, and ready for occupancy. It is a very pretty row and on a desirable street. There has been a large amount of building done and to be done here this year, more than any one year for a long time.

The city is shortly to number the houses and places of business in the city in anticipation of the free postal delivery which we are to have and which has been recommended by the Government Inspector recently. The service will be a great convenience to our people. Three carriers will be appointed.

Owl's Head park is having a large number of visitors, and all pronounce it one of the most delightful places on the coast of Maine.

Tilson Light Infantry, Capt R. H. Burnham, arrived home Saturday night from August where they have been in attendance on the State Muster. The company has been organized but a few months, but during that time have made rapid progress in the drill. They are a fine set of fellows and considering the time they have been organized, did credit to themselves.

Address of Hon. Z. A. Gilbert, at Six Mile Falls, on Butter Factories.

The following report of Hon. Z. A. Gilbert's address on co-operative creameries, held at Six Mile Falls, Bangor, has been delayed for several days on account of a press of other matter. The particulars of the meeting in other respects appeared in the WHIG AND COURIER at the time of the meeting.

Mr. Gilbert said it was always a pleasure for him to meet the farmers of Penobscot County, and consult with them in regard to the managing of the various interests connected with farming operations. No county in the State—if he excepted Aroostook—could boast of better grass fields or grazing lands, he was surprised at every step to see the evidence of improvement in the cultivation of the various farm crops. He had come with no particular set speech or line of argument, but proposed to talk over the matter of a co-operative creamery in a plain and familiar manner, and was glad to learn that they had, in his opinion, one of the most favored localities in the State for establishing the business of butter making. His experience was that farmers are always suspicious of each other; averse to putting together and inclined to let those who suggest new departures lead off, start the wheel and when they find everything running smoothly they jump on and ride. The time has come when farmers want to do something more than just enough to feed and clothe themselves and their families—on the voice is to do something more than barely make a living—they are anxious to enlarge their business and have a larger income to enable them to better educate their children and elevate themselves as farmers. Now the question is what can be done to get more money without increasing the labor in either house or field. You have the advantage of a good market, sell at good pay in the State; you do not fully appreciate the advantage you have over many other parts of the State. You have been in the habit of selling your hay, but the time of getting $20 per ton for it has gone by, and the west with its extensive and unlimited stretch of level fields, with the help of the improved machinery propelled by steam can raise grain in such abundance and their facilities of transportation are so convenient that the remunerating prices of former years are gone by, so farmers say, what shall we do, the price of hay and beef is too low to leave any margin of profit? Dairying is left to every farmer on these good lands. The practice of raising hay and putting it upon the market as a raw product is sure to impoverish your land. It takes four or five years to realize the money for a colt and three years with steers, while the pay for this month's cream is received next month; the farmer gets his money and can use it six times a year, so it is best for the young man with limited means.

But you say if prices have been leveled in all other branches, why not in this? One reason is because butter does not stand the wear and tear of time—it is requisite that butter must be fresh from the churn; stale butter is only used when the other cannot be obtained. A very large portion of the Boston and New York butter comes from beyond the Mississippi, so I say it is beyond our means to reduce butter below a paying price. Penobscot county can reach Boston ahead of even Vermont; you can put it into that market in better shape than they can from the west. We are making in both our private and public dairies a product that does not require us to take a back seat. There is room room for a large private dairy, but hardly any chance for the small butter maker, as the public finds that they get a better and more uniform article from a co-operating dairy. There is a vast saving of work in co-operation. Formerly 30 or 40 farmers would drive to Lewiston or Auburn taking the same number of teams and horses and spend a whole day delivering their butter; but since they have adopted the co-operative system one man and four teams does the whole business in the forty rods, and the forty cheese are stowed away in the cars, the women are relieved and the men are not obliged to leave their legitimate and important farm work under this system and there is more money returned to the farm than before. The figures of the Board of Trade prove that the difference in the price of the best private dairy butter and the standard article is equal to say the cost of manufacture. It is impossible to get the cheese factories in the beginning, caused their downfall; in some instances, three to four thousand dollars were invested where $1,400 only was really needed. There is no necessity for a two story building, a basement is all that is wanted—a room 16x30 is sufficient for a power room—this is large enough for a work-room and a storage room is not necessarily very large. An engine and boiler will not cost over $850 or perhaps in the city a water motor or some other power can be obtained cheaper. The only advantage from a steam power is the heating of water for the work room. All these matters must be looked after with an eye to economical service. In this system of butter making as well as all others it is necessary to have complete and absolute control of the temperature, therefore it is necessary to provide ourselves with the proper apparatus for setting the milk. The system generally adopted is the deep cans by the cold setting method and it is a great advance over the former practice. The milk must be set in a uniform manner and uniform cans because each man receives his cream by measure and the accounts are kept by the depth of the cream in the cans; every man is credited by the inches or spaces of cream found on the top of his milk in the can. The cost of the cans will depend upon the kind of cans adopted. By this system it becomes necessary to set the cans in cold water, therefore a tank must be had to set these cans in, but there is no necessity for paying any money for painting, varnishing and striping; a tank made of hemlock boards, double boarded, with a space of three inches filled with sawdust, a tight cover and lined with zinc, will answer all purposes, although the agents of the cream-gathering appliances may try to make you believe to the contrary. Ice is a necessity and all good farmers have put it up on their premises, and it will only have to be increased a little; the temperature of the water must be under control. It is not necessary to keep the cans entirely under water, but simply surrounded by water; upon which to be exposed to the air. The practice of covering milk up air tight for the purpose of creaming is erroneous; it should be kept open until it cools down to the temperature of the water; it should not be covered. Absolutely air tight, as says an owner from the cow, but the supposition is that the microscopic infinitesimals are good germs. Practical experience proves the fallacy of this last supposition. The cans should be set in water not over two inches deep, so that as the cream rises it will be easily skimmed off. The cans should be set in a cool place, and the water should be changed daily. The cans should be set in water as soon as possible after the milk is drawn from the cow. The cans should be kept

Mr Burleigh's Letter

We publish this morning Hon E C Burleigh's able letter accepting the Republican gubernatorial nomination The great interest Maine has at stake as between the Republican policy of protection and the Democratic policy of free trade the issue upon which the National election will turn lends Mr Burleigh to discuss that question at some length for as he well says Maine's vote in September will in reality be the verdict upon the stewardship of the party responsible for the destructive attack upon our industries His presentment of the Democratic party is clear and incisive The effects of the Mills bill are pointed out in a forcible and comprehensive manner showing that this the accepted policy of the Democracy, would be a most disastrous thing for the state should it ever become a law The letter is a frank statement of his position on the political issues and shows that Mr Burleigh is the uncompromising champion of the protective system as he is of all laws for the moral and material welfare of the people We commend his letter of acceptance to the careful consideration of the voters of Maine who, after reading it, must be strengthened in the firm belief that the best interests of the state will be subserved by rolling up a big majority in September for the candidate who is in hearty sympathy with the Republican protective platform as against the free lumber free wool fishery surrender candidate of the Democratic party

The President's Somersault

Cleveland back about which so much has been said in the past seems to have been edged in and the railroad speed with which he is rushing on to defeat is causing consternation in the ranks of the Democracy Ever since he began to plume himself for a second term, which he had previously declared to be dangerous to the welfare of our style of government, he has made one bad break after another until to-day our friends the enemy are wondering what calamity will befall them next With this entire disregard for the counsel for wise men than himself for which Mr Cleveland has become famous he persisted in launching upon the country his celebrated free trade message For awhile the Democratic organs sought to make the best of a bad job and exalted the President for his courageous stand against the iniquitous tariff, but the unpopularity of that document has finally created a panic among his defenders and has at last penetrated the somewhat thick skin of the Chief Executive so that he has delayed his letter of acceptance in the hope of discovering some road out of the predicament into which he stubbornly led his party

Singular as it may seem he seizes upon another blunder to rectify the effects or at least to distract attention from the tariff blunder The result of these unique tactics as might be expected instead of relieving the strained attitude of the Democracy simply leaves Mr Cleveland high and dry fully exposed to the public view as the cheap political trickster which the New York Times now supporting his administration declared him to be when filling the gubernatorial chair in New York State Within a few short hours President Cleveland changes from his advocacy of a treaty based on the assumption that our fishermen whose rights were shamefully sacrificed, had no grievance worthy of the name, to the Championship of a retaliation policy so radical that the law already passed by Congress does not in his opinion confer power in adequate proportion to the offences committed by Canada, of which he seems to have just learned, and he asks for additional legislation to fasten in a single bound as Mr Blaine says in his Lewiston speech, the President tries to "Out Herod Herod

The cause for this political buncombe is not hard to find. There was no occasion for this tremendous flop other than the dire political necessity which the President finds confronting him as a "condition" rather than a "theory." For something more than a year he has been clothed with ample power to meet this emergency. Instead of exercising this power, however, he persisted in the negotiation of a treaty in spite of the formal protest of the Senate The very fact that he ignored the retaliation law until he tried every expedient he could command to surrender the rights of our fishermen, and only failed by the intervention of the veto of a Republican Senate, shows the utter bankruptcy of his last message. It stings him, and even the Boston Herald, which has been equal to most of the executive administration of the President, also now proving so disastrous to the Democratic party, but the scheme will not work. The change of front cannot fail moreover to be extremely embarrassing to Negotiator Putnam who has been going over the State defending the treaty now crushly abandoned by Mr. Cleveland in a message which is a practical confession that his fishery policy was a dismal failure The fishery speeches of Negotiator Putnam now being circulated among the faithful will be funny reading in view of the President's sudden conversion to the very policy against which said speeches were aimed The President's intense selfishness has lead him to play a very shabby trick upon Mr Putnam whose candidacy has been based upon securing an indorsement of the treaty now deserted by its promoter

What the Figures Prove

Notwithstanding the Democratic threat of free wool and the "paralyzing" effect of tariff agitation, our farmer friends will please observe that as the cooler season approaches the price of wool is advancing Manufacturers have kept out of the market as long as possible, but they have not been enabled to prevent a reaction and an advance in prices. If the Mills bill, in so far as relates to wool and woolens, should become a law the country would witness a sudden revival of woolen manufacturing industry Free raw material would set every idle spindle to buzzing—Commercial

We incline to the opinion that there must be a 'typographical error' in the above Where it reads 'the country' the Commercial evidently meant to say England because we have it on the authority of eminent British journals that the Cleveland policy would result in a tremendous stimulus to English industry Moreover the Philadelphia Times a Democratic paper, has declared that free wool would be followed by free woolens If, however, our contemporary is quite sure that it means what it says in this case it is only one more illustration of how far it can get from the facts when it deals with the tariff We have had a low tariff on wool in this country and a protective tariff, so that the prosperity of the wool industry under the two systems is not a matter of speculation but of cold facts Under a Democratic free trade, low tariff, or whatever our contemporary may please to call it the increase in the number of sheep during a period of ten years was 400,000, while in the same time under a protective tariff the increase was nearly 31,000 000 The increase in the wool product for ten years under a low tariff was 7,747,954 pounds and under a protective tariff it was 140,000 000 pounds These significant figures are worth columns of mere assertions like that quoted above, providing always that the Commercial means what it says Now the farmers of Maine are very intelligent men and they know all about these facts, but yet the Commercial invites them to vote for free wool, which is not on the free list so-day simply because a Republican Senate stands between the people and Cleveland, Carlisle and Mills, a fact that will account for the price of it has increased There is no material in that point for our free trade contemporary

Better Say What You Mean

THE WHIG is great in small things It revels in a typographical error and majestically overlooks a great principle—Commercial

This is highly amusing The Commercial starts out to correct certain alleged inaccuracies and then when it gets spanked cries out that it is not fare because it was mistaken in its alleged facts We have long since learned that the Commercial seldom means what it says For instance, within a few days it declared in effect that free lumber would be a good thing for this State, but this was simply a little prevarication for which our contemporary is quite noted, because it surely did not mean any such thing having stated only a month or so ago that the removal of the lumber duty would be a gratuitous injustice to our people The fact is our contemporary is so muddled over the tariff question that it does not know what it does mean to say more than half the time and its readers are not even so fortunate as that for they never know having absolutely lost all reckoning in the multitude of courses over which it has steered in trying to keep off the rocks

Changes in Aroostook

A correspondent writes William Burns, of Easton, a life long Democrat, emphatically declares that he shall vote the straight Republican ticket in the coming election He says that free trade is too much for him George G Hatch, of the same town, who was always a Democrat until two years ago when he joined the prohibitionists, has now joined the Republican ranks He says he shall use his vote and influence against free trade Another voter in the same town, who has been a prohibitionist, also positively says that he shall vote the Republican ticket and against free trade Several others in the same town who hitherto have been against the Republicans will undoubtedly record themselves against Democratic free trade

The Benefits of Life Insurance.

IF you will spend a lecture and in January, you, in imagine this fine for you thousand dollars, family or to you with thousand persons and estimate exactly what it has produced, with been paid out in losses, and what it has produced in the aggregate amount of money, paid out in losses, and in premiums for the support of the families of the deceased. On one policy the amount was five hundred and the amount paid out was twelve hundred. Then it has saved the life to which have paid thousands, and the aggregate of premiums that the policy would ever really cost is.

The old story is new here.

Consideration of the fisheries which were deeply interwoven [illegible] the treaty of Maine and I [illegible] now interest the whole [illegible] inspired to hear the opinions of the full text of President Cleveland's message on the subject until the [illegible] and, with all due respect [illegible] executive of the Nation I [illegible] undering all the circumstances [illegible] most extraordinary document [illegible] was sent from the White House [illegible] Capitol You know the state [illegible] issue between Canada and [illegible] States in respect to the fishery [illegible] our belief and still is that [illegible] of the treaty of Washington [illegible] the fisheries had expired [illegible] government I believed at [illegible] unanimity and unparalleled [illegible] fishermen in refusing the [illegible] they had enjoyed by the [illegible] order to bring the government [illegible] mission to a just appreciation [illegible] ject Congress authorized the [illegible] the spring of 1886 to adopt [illegible] that a policy of non-intercourse [illegible] ing among other things, that [illegible] so long as American citizens [illegible] prived of commercial privileges [illegible] ports of Canada,

Canadian vessels should be [illegible] of like privileges in the ports of [illegible] States This, if I mistake [illegible] policy in which the press [illegible] morally fitted to the occasion [illegible] Cleveland declined to enforce [illegible] and allowed outrage after [illegible] our fishing vessels to go [illegible] was best on some form of negotiation [illegible] England even again the [illegible] and will of the United States [illegible] in defiance of the law [illegible] making power which [illegible] signs to the Senate [illegible] consent of the Senate [illegible] against its protest, the President [illegible] a commission to frame a treaty [illegible] settle all points of dispute [illegible] what never was intended by [illegible] tion, a portion of the [illegible] discussion It was never [illegible] founders of our government [illegible] course with foreign nations [illegible] ducted by Republicans or by Democrats or by Whigs or by Federalists [illegible] only by the nation as a whole [illegible] have our partisan differences [illegible] settle them on our own [illegible] way, but toward all foreign [illegible] globe we should present one [illegible] indivisible American Republic

But this was not done The [illegible] launched as a Democratic party [illegible] sure, rather than a patriotic [illegible] measure, and the London papers have [illegible] following their usual vocation [illegible] ing the Democracy and abusing the [illegible] publicans with greatly increasing [illegible] tion against the Republican party [illegible] since it was found that the [illegible] beat on maintaining the national dignity [illegible] it is plainly apparent from the text of the Constitution itself that the wise men who framed it intended that the ordinary legislative power should be conferred on the majority, however small but the [illegible] treaty could be framed without the [illegible] wholesome support of public opinion [illegible] provided, therefore, that it should require in all cases two-thirds of the Senate [illegible] ratify a treaty, but, despite this [illegible] National Administration went ahead [illegible] gardless of results, and negotiated a treaty [illegible]

Constipation

Demands prompt treatment. The results of neglect may be serious. Avoid all harsh and drastic purgatives, the tendency of which is to weaken the bowels. The best remedy is Ayer's Pills. Being purely vegetable, their action is prompt and their effect always beneficial. They are an admirable Liver and Alterative pill and may be taken unknown by the patient.

"Ayer's Pills are highly and universally valued by my family and patients."—Dr. T. J. Gordon, Bangor, Conn.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pill above all others, having, in my practice, found them the most effective."—Dr. [illegible], Louisville, Ky.

"For several years Ayer's Pills have been used in my family. We find them the for constipation and sick headache, and we never hesitate to give them a trial when any cathartic is needed."—Mrs. Conner, Lowell, Mass.

"I have tried Ayer's Pills for liver complaint and constipation, finding them prompt and efficient in their action."—[illegible], Ky.

"I suffered from constipation and sick headache, and my stomach was in a disordered condition. One box of Ayer's Pills has cured me of all these troubles."—[illegible], Mass.

"I have recommended Ayer's Pills to my patients, and have always found them to give satisfaction."—[illegible], Mass.

CHAPTER II.

[illegible]

"What did you say, young man?" he said at last, in a low, hard voice.

"I said that I was going to be ashamed of yourself," continued the indignant lady, her grandeur gone, and her eyes ablaze with indignation. "Oh! How did you be so like an angry man? Why, you said that you meant it!"

"I mean it," repeated the speaker, speaking in a low, hard voice, that grew more and more hard as he went on. "I mean it, and I will do it, if you don't stop right this minute. I have made the acquaintance of a lady, and I am going to marry her, and I will do it, if you don't stop right this minute."

"Oh!" interrupted his mother, "Stop, stop, stop!"

"All right, I am stopped. This is the end of it. I am sorry, but I am not to be bullied into anything. I am sorry, but I am not to be bullied into anything. I am sorry, but I am not to be bullied into anything

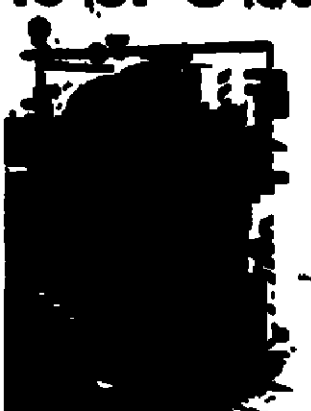
Floor Steam Heater.

(Portable Brick Set)



All the valuable features of the old conversation remained, and to its reconstruction and improvements the Floor has the due essential qualities to a perfect Heater, viz. Safety, Durability, Economy, Simplicity and Ease of Management which are the demands of the public, whose confidence we seek. It will do more work with less fuel than any other Heater now in the market. We have a portable Heater set up for exhibition in our store and parties contemplating heating by steam are cordially invited to call and inspect the Floor before deciding.

Testimonials from all parts of the United States and especially from our own citizens favor the Floor above all other Heaters.
